“All actions have consequences!”

Directed toward middle and high school students (7th grade and older), this prevention program examines the criminal justice system and how the seemingly harmless acts engaged in by youth – many of which are actually crimes – can ruin their futures.

The program focuses on topics such as underage smoking and drinking, abuse of a teacher, terrorist threatening, social media use, bullying, child pornography (sexting) and drug “trafficking.” Discussion includes honest, yet age-appropriate, examples to grab attention and create a lasting impact.

Includes a Pre-Program and Post-Program survey to determine changes in students’ knowledge about these critical issues. Surveys are compiled by the University of Kentucky Prevention Research Center.

PowerPoint program may be given in a classroom or auditorium-style setting and includes an interactive question-and-answer discussion with students.

Program lasts approximately 1 hour.
