Social Media - Use and Standards

Due to today's technology-dependent society, social media is a constant presence in the lives of many. Social media can take many different forms including, internet forums, blogs & micro blogs, online profiles, wikis, podcasts, pictures and video, email, instant messaging, music-sharing, and voice over IP. Examples of social media applications include LinkedIn, Facebook, MySpace, Wikipedia, YouTube, Twitter, Instagram, and Vine, etc.

UNITE strives to maintain a professional image on all online fronts, so its use is not to be taken lightly by UNITE. While we encourage online collaboration and welcome our personnel to participate in social media, the following guidelines for appropriate online conduct will assist you in avoiding the misuse of this communication medium. When utilizing social media, even for personal reasons, UNITE personnel, must adhere to the guidelines below. A lack of adherence to these policies may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

1. You may not share information that is confidential and proprietary about UNITE's operations. To this extent, UNITE's operations are in many instances highly confidential and sensitive, including but not limited to: drug treatment referrals and criminal investigations.

2. Respect all copyright and other intellectual property laws. For UNITE's protection as well as your own, it is critical that you show proper respect for the laws governing copyright, fair use of copyrighted material owned by others, trademarks and other intellectual property, including UNITE's own copyrights, trademarks and brands.

3. Maliciously false statements about UNITE, current employees, potential employees, and third parties associated with UNITE, such as volunteers, are prohibited.

4. You are encouraged to write knowledgeably, accurately, and with appropriate professionalism. Despite disclaimers, your web interaction can result in members of the public forming opinions about UNITE and its employees, partners and operations.

5. You are not authorized to speak on behalf of UNITE, either online or otherwise. You will be subject to discipline if you suggest that your speech represents that of UNITE or if you knowingly permit others to infer that you are speaking on behalf of UNITE.

6. Recognize that you are legally liable for anything you write or present online. Personnel can be disciplined by UNITE for posting commentary, content, or images that are maliciously false, pornographic, proprietary, harassing, libelous, or that can create a hostile work environment.

7. Adherence to UNITE's Code of Conduct is required in the personal use of social media.

8. A word about accepting invitations to connect on social media. Personnel, in particular, those engaged in outreach activities involving children, must be cognizant that if you accept invitations or connect with children involved in UNITE programs, you must make sure that your content is at all times professional, appropriate for viewing by these individuals, and consistent with UNITE core values being taught by UNITE personnel. For example, engaging in speech and/or photos that are reckless, irresponsible, sexually explicit or other forms of speech that ridicule, malign, disparage or otherwise express bias against any race, religion or any protected class of individuals, are prohibited and grounds for discipline up to and including termination. It may also preclude you from future employment with UNITE in any outreach program for children.

Personnel who are, or who may reasonably be expected to work in undercover operations, shall not post any form of visual or personal identification.

Similarly, UNITE personnel engaged in law enforcement activities should recognize that social media postings may provide grounds for undermining or impeaching your testimony in criminal proceedings, and thus, can have a direct bearing on your ability to perform your job duties.

10. When using social media, UNITE personnel should be mindful that their speech and/or photos become part of the worldwide electronic domain. Therefore, UNITE personnel should be aware that privacy settings and social media sites are constantly in flux, and they should never assume that personal information posted on such sites is protected.
